

Medical Kidnapping

NH Veteran Chris Martin is fighting for his life while his family fights to get him on different medication or out of Dartmouth Hitchcock Medical Center all together. There will be a vigil tonight at 8PM (see image below). Chris's wife Jennifer, together with Larisa Trexler of Health Freedom NH, will be joining us for our 1PM zoom tomorrow (Monday) to give us more of the inside scoop and to tell us how we can help. ## Monadnock Freedom Conference

Over 75 people came together yesterday in Swanzeey for the first-ever Monadnock Freedom Conference. A great time was had by all and many good connections were made. We'd like to thank: the presenters/discussion leaders of the various breakout sessions for the gift of their time and talents; the many volunteer staff for help in setting up, managing registration, preparing and sharing food and drink, managing childcare, and staying afterwards for cleanup; and all those who trekked out on a beautiful September day to share and network. It was a very inspiring day all around.
