Welcome to our Monday Solutions Edition with curated news of the day and memes at bottom. Today we feature a number of important videos on the recent emergence of powerful AI tools, and precisely why and how they pose a danger to society. We also feature our usual Monday collection of new relocalization, gardening, self-sufficiency, community-building and health-promoting resources.

Rise Up NH Weekly Zoom - today will be an open conversation, 1PM:

Earth Day & How the Environmental Movement Went Off the Rails

The article criticizes the environmental movement for being co-opted by technocracy and denigrating the public. It contrasts the genuine devotion of a water protector with the false sense of ego of smart grid proponents. It calls for a consciousness reset to restore the reverence for nature and human rights.

- Garden access will be run as a P. M. A.
- The details are still being worked out and adjustments will be made as necessary, but the newly-established gardens will be planted this spring with a variety of vegetables. Some medicinal herb plant starts will be available as well.
- Initially either “pick your own” or order ahead to have produce ready for pick-up.

to produce a single chimeric armored RNA species that might be used as a positive control for multiple viral targets. We consider this task to be feasible because the inventors of armored RNA predicted that, theoretically, at least 2 kb of nonbacteriophage RNA sequence might be encapsulated (3). As proof of this principle, we tried to directly package a 1200-nucleotide-long foreign RNA sequence containing gene fragments of hepatitis C virus (HCV), HIV-1, severe acute respiratory syndrome coronavirus 1 (SARS-CoV-1), and SARS-CoV-2 into the original armored RNA production vector pAR-1 (2).

We spliced the 4 target cDNA sequences by overlapping extension (10). After cloning the 4-target chimeric sequence (see the Data Supplement that accompanies the online version of this letter at <http://www.chemchem.org/content/2006/069971> for the sequence information of the 4 fragments as well as the primers and probes used).

Fig. 2. Detection of the 4-target chimeric RNA by RT-PCR. The 4-target chimeric RNA was amplified by RT-PCR using the primers and probes described in the Data Supplement. The results are shown as gel electrophoresis images. The bands are labeled with the number of cycles (1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100).

principles, we tried to directly package a 1200-nucleotide-long foreign RNA sequence containing gene fragments of hepatitis C virus (HCV), HIV-1, severe acute respiratory syndrome coronavirus 1 (SARS-CoV-1), and SARS-CoV-2 into the original armored RNA production vector pAR-1 (2).

After we Fig. 1, in the online Data Supplement based on digital PCR (dPCR), the 4-target chimeric RNA was detected at a concentration of 10<sup>4</sup> copies per microliter (μL) in the original armored RNA production vector pAR-1 (2).

Our work indicates that multiple target sequences can be encapsulated into a single armored RNA species as a universal platform for detection of different RNA viruses. Chimeric armored RNA of even longer length can be used to detect multiple targets.
