Welcome to our Friday News Edition with curated news of the day and memes at bottom. Today's theme is "Breakdown" - of civil society (lack of checks and balances); of borders (being overrun by design) and the rule of law (FBI snubs House Oversight Committee over Biden crimes - read JH Kunstler's take on it); of parental rights (WA will take child away if parents block gender transition; Maine could become transitioning sanctuary state); of science (new WHO vaccine push, fake science papers); of morality (UN pushes pedophilia in plain language); of the food supply (further revelations about livestock vaccines); of water quality (FDA not regulating when it should); of economic soundness (more banks going under; more countries feeling the US dollar; economic "doom loops" are multiplying); of peace (wars and attacks on civilian populations ramping up in many places); and of objectivity and logic (the Disinformation Board gets rebranded/relaunched; mass media pushes censorship and hate). Alongside this cultural demise, there also continues to be a breakdown of the mainstream narrative as the national COVID emergency officially ends and the onslaught of truth about the harms of lockdowns, masks, and vaccine injuries continues unabated (new exposés, new studies, new documentaries). As Martin Geddes points out (in our Up First section), we are going to have to come to terms with the "Societal Ultrashock." And as we've been harping on: we need to continue to speak about and take constructive actions towards the saner and more beautiful world we know is possible. This is how breakdown turns (eventually) into breakthrough.

Kensington Cell Tower Conversations - May 17

The Kensington zoning and planning boards approved a cell tower at 184 South Road (Rt. 107). We were recently informed this is zoned residential, not commercial. On March 15, 2023, the zoning board also approved a variance that allows a cell tower to be installed in a residential zone at 70 Moulton Ridge Road. The current Kensington zoning ordinance article V section 5.1.5.2 does not allow this. For this and many other reasons, our concerned citizens group is contacting Kensington residents regarding the expansion of the telecommunication network in to residential and agricultural zones.

Maine Bill Threatens NH Families

Yesterday I was alerted to a proposed bill in Maine that could threaten the safety of families in New Hampshire. LD 1735, an ACT to safeguard gender affirming care, proposes a litany of protections for gender affirming care (in the most horrible legalize).

Section 6 of this bill refers to "abandoned child" and reads: "Abandoned child; emergency. A court of this State has temporary emergency jurisdiction if the child is present in this State and the child has been abandoned or it is necessary in an emergency to protect the child because the child or a sibling or parent of the child is subjected to or threatened with mistreatment or abuse or because the child has been unable to obtain gender-affirming health care or gender-affirming mental health care." Essentially this means a child whose parents object to gender affirming care could run away to ME and become a ward of the state to receive gender affirming care.

Section 8 modifies the Maine Uniform Child Custody Jurisdiction and Enforcement Act to encourage non-custodial parents or temporary guardians, such as friends or relative to transport a child to Maine for the purposes of obtaining gender affirming care. "Prohibition. In making a determination under this section, a court may not consider as a factor weighing against the petitioner any taking of the child, or retention of the child after a visit or other temporary relinquishment of physical custody, from the person who has legal custody, if there is evidence that the taking or retention of the child was for the purposes of obtaining gender-affirming health care or gender-affirming mental health care for the child and the law or policy of the other state limits the ability of a parent to obtain gender-affirming health care or gender-affirming mental health care for the parent's child."

Take Action

The bill has a hearing Friday, May 12th at 1 pm in Judiciary. Please follow the prompts in the link here, to submit written testimony OPPOSING LD1735:

Upcoming Judicial Appointments

In New Hampshire, judges are nominated by the Governor and confirmed by the Executive Council. The mandatory retirement age for a judge is 70 years old. This year, Supreme Court Justice Hicks will reach mandatory retirement and the process of replacing him will begin. In light of some of Governor Sununu's past nominations, there is reason to be concerned and the eventual replacement could have lasting effects on NH law for years to come, particularly in regard to civil liberties.

Currently, Assistant Attorney General Anne Edwards has been nominated, but not yet confirmed as a Superior Court judge. Anne Edwards was one of the main enforcers of the absurd, unscientific, and damaging Covid-era mandates and RebuildNH opposes her confirmation as a judge. Someone with such a disregard for basic civil liberties should not serve as a judge.

Take Action Today

Please contact your Executive Council member today.

Tell them to oppose Anne Edwards' confirmation as a Superior Court judge.

Ask them to support a replacement for Justice Hicks who respects civil liberties.

ABSTRACT

Background: Integrity of academic publishing is increasingly undermined by fake science publications masquerading as peer-reviewed "scholarly articles" (so-called "paper mills"). They use AI-supported, automated production techniques to write and self-fake publications to students, scientists, and physicians under pressure to advance their careers. Because the scale of fake publications in biomedicine is unknown, we developed a simple method to red-flag them and estimate their number.

Methods: To identify indicators able to red-flag fake publications (RFPs), we sent questionnaires to authors. Based on author responses, these indicators were identified: "author's private email", "international co-author" and "hospital affiliation". These were used to analyze 15,126 PubMed-listed publications regarding date, journal, impact factor, and country of author and validated in a sample of 400 known fakes and 400 matched potential non-fakes using classification (balancing) rules to red-flag potential fakes. For a subsample of 10 papers we used an additional indicator related to the percentage of RFP citations.

Results: The classification rules using two (three) indicators had sensitivities of 86% (90%) and false alarm rates of 44% (37%). From 2010 to 2020 the RFP rate increased from 10% to 24%. Given the 1.3 million biomedical Scopus-listed publications in 2020, we estimate the scope of >300,000 RFPs annually. Countries with the highest RFP proportion are Russia, Turkey, China, Egypt, and India (39%-40%), with China, in absolute terms, as the largest contributor of all RFPs (57%).

Conclusion: Potential fake publications can be red-flagged using simple-to-use, validated classification rules to curtail them for subsequent scrutiny. RFP rates are increasing, suggesting higher actual fake rates than previously reported. The scale and proliferation of fake publications in biomedicine can damage trust in science, endanger public

Left: Estimated percentage of red-flagged publications of each country's publication output (based on Study 1). There are three clusters: countries with high (>30%), medium (10%-30%), or low (<10%) numbers of RFPs. Right: the contribution of different countries to the total number of potential fake publications (sample N=585). For absolute values, see Table 2. Interestingly, there are three clusters of the RFP rate which might reflect each nation's

World Atmospheric CO<sub>2</sub>, Its <sup>14</sup>C Specific Activity, Non-fossil Component, Anthropogenic Fossil Component, and Emissions (1750–2018)

Kenneth Skrabble, George Chabot, and Clayton French<sup>1</sup>

Abstract—After 1750 and the onset of the industrial revolution, the anthropogenic fossil component and the non-fossil component in the total atmospheric CO<sub>2</sub> concentration,  $C(t)$ , began to increase. Despite the lack of knowledge of these two components, claims that all or most of the increase in  $C(t)$  since 1800 has been due to the anthropogenic fossil component have continued since they began in 1960 with "Keeling Curve: Increase in CO<sub>2</sub> from burning fossil fuel." Data and plots of annual anthropogenic fossil CO<sub>2</sub> emissions and concentrations,  $C_f(t)$ , published by the Energy Information Administration, are expanded in this paper. Additions include annual mean values in 1750 through 2018 of the <sup>14</sup>C specific activity, concentrations of the two components, and their changes from values in 1750. The specific activity of <sup>14</sup>C in the atmosphere gets reduced by a dilution effect when fossil CO<sub>2</sub>, which is devoid of <sup>14</sup>C, enters the atmosphere. We have used the results of this effect to quantify the two components. All results covering the period from 1750 through 2018 are listed in a table and plotted in figures. These results negate claims that the increase in  $C(t)$  since 1800 has been dominated by the increase of the anthropogenic fossil component. We determined that in 2018, atmospheric anthropogenic fossil CO<sub>2</sub> represented 23% of the total emissions since 1750 with the remaining 77% in the exchange reservoirs. Our results show that the percentage of the total CO<sub>2</sub> due to the use of fossil fuels from 1750 to 2018 increased from 0% in 1750 to 12% in 2018, much too low to be the cause of global warming. Health Phys. 122(2):291–305; 2022

Key words: <sup>14</sup>C; emissions, atmospheric; emissons; radiation protection

tions,  $C(t)$ , increased along with increases in temperatures. Atmospheric measurements of  $C(t)$  were not available until 1958 at the Mauna Loa, HI, observatory of the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA), which has provided the longest record of atmospheric measurements of the total CO<sub>2</sub> initiated by Charles Keeling in 1958 at the Mauna Loa observatory (Keeling 1960). Based on our knowledge, the anthropogenic fossil component,  $C_f(t)$ , and non-fossil component,  $C_{nf}(t)$ , in  $C(t)$  have never been estimated by NOAA at its observatories or at any other observatory from atmospheric measurements of CO<sub>2</sub>. Despite the lack of knowledge of the components of  $C(t)$ , claims have been made in the scientific literature (CSIRO 2014; Rubino et al. 2013, 2019) that all or most of the increase in  $C(t)$  since 1800 has been due to the anthropogenic fossil component,  $C_f(t)$ .

Other atmospheric measurements of  $C(t)$  began in 2003 at the NOAA observatory in Niwot Ridge, including measurements of the three isotopes of carbon: <sup>12</sup>C, <sup>13</sup>C, and <sup>14</sup>C. Carbon-14 is a radioactive isotope of carbon having a half-life of 5,730 y. Carbon-14 atoms are produced in the atmosphere by interactions of cosmic rays, and they have reached an essentially constant steady state activity, i.e., disintegration rate, in the total world environment (Eisenbud and Gesell 1997). The age of fossil fuels is much longer than
